The Joy of a Pleasant Dining Room

The dining-room is the center of the home. From it radiates the good cheer and hospitality of the household. Here it is that we entertain our guests, and the good impression created by a pleasant dining-room lingers long in a person's memory. Would this table and lamp add to the attractiveness of your dining-room? Would it make you feel more like inviting your friends to your home? If your answer is in the affirmative you will want to read further.

The Petal Shaped Dome

It is one of the most beautiful designs ever created by the Glass-crafters. The dome measures 22 inches in diameter and has eight petal shaped panels of opalescent green and amber glass, and when illuminated a rich yellow light is cast about the room. The entire frame, chain, and ceiling canopy is finished in satin brass. Each dome is fitted with a three-cluster electric light socket or pull chain self-lighting inverted gas mantle, just as you wish.

The Solid Oak Table

Is made of selected solid oak lumber, has a 42-inch top that extends to six feet; this top is highly polished to bring out the handsome oak grain. The design is the very newest, a semi-colonial pattern, and the construction is of the very best, for this table is the product of the country's best known furniture factories.

The Price $17.75

Try, if you can, to disassociate one of these articles from the other, examine either one carefully, note the little details about it, then estimate the actual value of it. "Is $17.75 too much for the lamp?" or "Is $17.75 too much for the table?" "No." Then just stop to consider that both of these articles can be bought here today at the actual valuation of either one single. It is then that you fully realize how remarkable this offer is and how much you gain by taking advantage of it.

You Can Use Your Credit

This extraordinary value, just like all the other Under-selling Specials we offer, can be bought on our liberal Credit terms which permit you to settle any size bill gradually and easily without missing the money. NEWMAN MUST FIGHT FOR JOB

Court of Appeals Disagrees with District Tribunal on Commissionership.

WILL ASK REVIEW SOON

Lawyers to Prepare to Take Suit
Started by W. J. Frizzell to U. S. Supreme Court.

The Court of Appeals, in an opinion handed down yesterday, reversed the decision of Justice Anderson, of the District Supreme Court, who sustained the demurrer to the writ of quo warranto issued by Justice Wright, and dismissed the petition for its issuance filed by William J. Frizzell, taxpayer, who challenged the right of Oliver P. Newman to hold the office of a District Commissioner, on the ground that he was not a resident of the District within the meaning of the District code.

The cause is remanded to the lower courts for further proceedings not inconsistent with the opinion of the Court of Appeals. Counsel for Mr. Newman will prepare to have the action of the Court of Appeals reviewed by the United States Supreme Court.

The questions considered at length by the appellate court were, first, whether Mr. Frizzell was a "person interested" within the meaning of section 1240 of the District code, under which the quo warranto proceedings were instituted, and, second, whether the action of the President in nominating Mr. Newman and the Senate in confirming the nomination was final, or whether the court could inquire into his eligibility.

Code Is Construed.

Referring to the question whether Mr. Frizzell is a "person interested," Justice Van Orsdal, who wrote the opinion, to which Justice Robb assented and Chief Justice Shepard dissented, said:

"In each instance, where it has been held that a relator must be a citizen personally interested in the office, the decision was prompted by the express terms of the statute."

"Applying the same sound rule of statutory control of judicial decision, we must hold that 'person interested' is broad enough to admit of any citizen and taxpayer of the District of Columbia, by leave of court, exhibiting an information in quo warranto to test the right of an officer to hold a public office."

As to whether the right to institute the quo warranto proceedings is vested solely in the Attorney General and the District Attorney, the opinion says:

"The statute is general. In that it nowhere distinguishes between the usurpers of public and private offices. The right of the relator to have the writ issued depends wholly upon the discretion of the court. In determining whether or not the reasons set forth in the petition are sufficient in law, the court undoubtedly may inquire into interest and motives of the party seeking the writ, as well as the sufficiency of the evidence offered. If it had been intended to limit the right to the Attorney General or the District Attorney, the statute would have said so in terms."

Interprets President's Power.

With respect to the contention of counsel for Mr. Newman that the action of the President of the United States and the Senate in the nomination and confirmation, respectively, of Mr. Newman was final and could not be reviewed by the court, the opinion says:

"By the long line of decisions cited by the learned justice below it is settled law that where an executive officer of the government is vested with discretionary power in the execution of a law, the exercise of that discretion cannot be controlled by judicial process. It is only where such an officer is charged by law with the performance of a mere ministerial act, devoid of discretion, that the courts will interfere to command its performance or restrain its violation."

"But relator is not seeking either to review the action of the President in making this appointment or to control his discretion. The purpose of the writ is not to compel the President to appoint a certain citizen or to define a class of citizens from which a selection shall be made. It is to inquire into an alleged mistaken conception of the law by which it is claimed that a disqualified person has been installed into a public office. It may be that a trial upon the merits will disclose that no mistake was made, but that is a question of fact proper for judicial inquiry."

CHASE IS INDICTED FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

True Bill, Embodying Six Counts, Returned Against Former Y. M. C. A. Official.

The grand jury yesterday indicted Charles N. Chase, former business secretary of the Y. M. C. A., for embezzling $10,461.94 of the institution's funds. Chase, out on bond, will not have to renew his bail. Bail fixed at the time of his arrest is sufficient.

There were six counts in the indictment, which charges embezzlements as follows: August 2, 1912, $500; May 10, 1913, $2,500; July 15, 1913, $2,500; October 10, 1913, $100; and October 20, 1913, $150. A blanket charge of appropriating $10,461.94 is contained in the sixth count.

Chase was arrested on December 6, and gave $5,000 bond on December 16 to await action of the grand jury.

George W. Ray, of Georgetown, was his bondsman.

JOINS BETTER LIGHTING FIGHT.

James Lansburgh Makes Plea for Upper Fourteenth Street.

James Lansburgh, one of the best-known business men of the city and for many years a resident of Columbia Heights, yesterday declared the request of the citizens in that neighborhood for better illumination in upper Fourteenth street should be granted without delay.

"I have lived on Columbia Heights many years," said Mr. Lansburgh, "and the growth of the section has been truly remarkable. The development has been especially marked along Fourteenth street, which is now an important business thoroughfare, where most of the shopping is done at night."

The special committee in charge of the lighting campaign, of which J. Clinton Hiatt, is chairman, will submit its report and suggest new plans for furthering the project, which will be considered by the association. Mr. Hiatt has prepared a report covering the hearing which was granted the committee by Engineer Commissioner Harding last week, at which Maj. Harding assured the committee he was in favor of better illumination on upper Fourteenth street.

TOPHAM GETS U. S. CONTRACT.

Washington Company Will Make
Trunks for Uncle Sam's Warriors.

A contract for manufacturing and furnishing the United States army with 6,000 trunks has been awarded to Topham's, of this city, over competitors throughout the country.

The Topham firm already has furnished the government with nearly a hundred thousand trunks, which attest the satisfaction given by these trunks, as they have stood the test admirably in Cuba, Porto Rico, the Philippines, Alaska, and other countries, where the peculiarities of the climate would prove disastrous to the ordinarily constructed trunk. These trunks are constructed of three-ply veneer, covered, bound, and trimmed with vulcanized hard fiber. Specially designed hardware and trimmings are used.
